This workshop is designed to certify school personnel as a Suicide Safety for School Staff Trainer. Upon completion of the workshop, the trainer will have the ability to facilitate a one hour in-person training in schools that is designed to:

1. Review the importance of suicide prevention in schools
2. Describe the characteristics of an “at risk” student
3. Outline a school staff member’s critical but limited role and clarify a building level referral process
4. Provide information about community resources

Ideal Candidates: Educators/ancillary staff in schools, and community-based prevention professionals who regularly educate students and school personnel. Previous training experience is critical.

Pre-Workshop Requirement: Trainer candidates are required to complete a two-hour online training, entitled “Making Educators Partners in Youth Suicide Prevention: Act on Facts.” This free training must be completed prior to March 06, 2019! The program can be accessed at <http://sptsuniversity.org/login/index.php>.

Our Facilitator, Pat Breux, RN BSN, is the State Director of School and Youth Initiatives at the Suicide Prevention Center of New York. She provides training, and consultation in best practices of suicide prevention, intervention and after suicide death to schools, youth-serving organizations and communities across New York State. Her work has received National recognition and awards. She is the author and developer of a National Best Practice workshop, "Creating Suicide Safety in School".
