

Digital Citizenship, Civic Engagement, and Leadership: Equipping Students

Date: 08/19/2019

Site: CA BOCES Barn

Time: 08:30 AM – 02:30 PM

COSER
510

Description:

Students can often identify the appropriate behavior for a given situation, but brain and moral development often impede following through with proper action. Technology has dramatically changed the way students learn, interact, and participate in society. Providing students with opportunities for practicing digital citizenship and civic engagement equips them for potential leadership within the school, community, and society.

Facilitator(s):

Cecelia Fuoco, Karen Insley, Justin Shumaker

Objectives:

- Participants will review Piaget's and Kohlberg's stages of moral development
- Participants will analyze judgment and emotional risk-taking behavior among teens
- Participants will evaluate meaningful approaches to teaching digital leadership, citizenship, and civic engagement
- Participants will develop a civic engagement project for students

Audience:

Teachers: P-12, School Librarians
