JULY 31, 2019
OLEAN BOCES
CENTER
8:30AM-2:30PM

A 2007 study revealed that 85% of identified trafficked youth in New York State had prior involvement in the child welfare system. These children may exhibit several vulnerabilities in which traffickers target and exploit. You can identify these children and help diminish their vulnerabilities. This Office of Children and Family Services workshop will include a story of survival from guest, Salka Valerio.

Participants will;

- *Recognize that CSEC youth are victims of crime and survivors of abuse
- *Identify the red flags of CSEC and youth trafficking
- *Learn resources available to CSEC and trafficked youth
- *Learn how to engage in trauma informed conversations with CSEC/trafficked youth that are health and safety based
